To all General Practitioners and Specialist Consultants

Dear Colleague,

My name is Dr Nicole Hope. I am a gynaecologist and have subspecialist qualifications in reproductive gynaecology and infertility (CREI) under the auspices of the Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists (RANZCOG).

I completed my medical degree with honours at the University of Melbourne in 1998 and subsequently finished my intern and residency years at St Vincent's Hospital, Fitzroy. I trained in obstetrics and gynaecology at the Mercy Hospital for Women and Box Hill Hospital, and undertook my subspecialty training in Reproductive Medicine at Monash Medical Centre in association with Monash IVF.

I hold public appointments as a Reproductive Gynaecologist at both the Mercy Hospital for Women and Box Hill Hospital. In addition to Epping, I consult privately at Bundoora, Box Hill and Clayton. I have been a member of the Monash IVF team since 2006.

As an infertility specialist, I have a particular interest in both male and female infertility. In addition, I have advanced training in specific reproductive gynaecology and endocrinology conditions, including polycystic ovarian syndrome, endometriosis, menstrual dysfunction, recurrent miscarriage, contraception and adolescent gynaecology.

My areas of interest often include issues that require sensitivity and counselling, and I aim to provide this level of care to all my patients. I am able to offer the most up-to-date reproductive technologies and take an individualised approach to each patient or couple's care.

I look forward to your referrals and assisting your patients.

Yours sincerely,

Dr Nicole Hope
